

Cleanup Of Dwellings Here Pushes Toward Completion

Large Army
Of Volunteers
Gives Big Lift

FLOOD VICTIMS breathed a sigh of relief last night as a volunteer task force of 500 or more virtually completed the "rough" cleaning of inundated dwellings in the twin boroughs.

Leo Achterman Jr., assistant chairman of the Monroe County Red Cross disaster committee, said about 275 homes had been cleared of heavy mud and debris in East Stroudsburg.

And Rev. Roger C. Stimson, coordinator of volunteer work in Stroudsburg, said attention has been given to all of the 163 requests to clean up homes in the borough.

Nearby Communities

(The Stroudsburg Board of Health announced that 255 homes were hit by the flood. Work completed ranges from 80 per cent of the cellars cleaned down to 50 per cent of the houses completely cleaned and sterilized. The health officer has cleared 48 homes for occupancy.)

Other dwellings were cleared in Bushkill, Analomink and Delaware Water Gap. And Achterman said requests for help will be answered shortly in the Bartonsville-Tannersville area.

About 275 Mennonites continued to work over the long Labor Day weekend. They were assisted by young people from the Friends, Brethren, Methodist and Presbyterian denominations, as well as members of the Jaycees and the Mechanicsburg Kiwanis Club.

By last night such progress had been made that the Mennonites decided to say "Goodbye" to the Stroudsburgs, but promised to send help back here, if and when it is needed.

Achterman said conservative estimates indicate the Mennonites put in 12,664 man hours and 1,852 man days.

Great Boost To Morale

Achterman reiterated that the help given by members of this denomination boosted the morale of flood victims immeasurably and hastened the tedious clean-up operations.

Norman G. Good, a member of the Mennonite disaster committee, said members of his group will return as soon as the Red Cross indicates the need for skilled help or for women to assist in the more detailed cleaning work.

"We considered this an opportunity to serve," said Good. "It has been a privilege, not a burden."

The volunteers have been at it for better than a week.

A week ago Sunday, about 180 men—members of the Jaycees and the Federation of Men's Bible Classes—fanned through distressed areas of the twin boroughs to lend a hand.

Work All Week

The next day, the Mennonites arrived—and they've come each day ever since.

Last Friday, about 50 Brethren young people formed a work camp and volunteered to lend their services for two weeks. An equal number of Quaker young people also joined in the clean-up job.

The Lahti Day weekend also saw members of Methodist and Presbyterian young groups assisting in the gigantic project.

Nation Marks Labor Day

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—The nation observed its 74th Labor Day today, with millions taking a final summer fling.

Roads and resorts were jammed for the long weekend, but death marred the holiday in many states. The traffic toll climbed above 350 before the day was out, while more than 50 people drowned.

In traditional fashion, public officials, labor leaders and churchmen joined in paying tribute to the working man.

President Eisenhower, in a special message from his summer headquarters in Denver, saluted "the men and women who with their heads, hands and hearts produce the wealth of the nation."

"In honoring the nation's workers today, we reaffirm our devotion to the nation itself—which over the years and decades, American workers have built," the President said.

He also called for an end to discrimination against older workers. Denying them jobs "merely because they happen to be over 45 years of age," Eisenhower said, is "an arbitrary bar to the full utilization of their abilities."

Union leaders looked ahead to a new era of political power for working men. Both George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Walter Reuther, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said in statements that the scheduled merger of their organizations would mean an increase in political activity.

In Washington, Secretary of Labor Mitchell and civic leaders attended the annual Labor Day Mass held in the shrine of the Sacred Heart. The most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Catholic archbishop of Washington, was the celebrant and the Rev. John F. Cronin of the National Catholic Welfare Conference preached a sermon on friendliness and tolerance in worker-management relations.

Million-Dollar Flood Control Work Is Announced

Additional Projects To Be Undertaken

REP. VAN D. YETTER, D., Monroe, Saturday told representatives of Monroe County's 20 townships and four boroughs that permanent flood control installations will be made on flood-ripped streams costing about one million dollars.

Yetter said he had conferred with Dr. Maurice Goddard, secretary of Department of Forests and Waters in Harrisburg on flood control measures of a permanent nature.

He said Goddard's preliminary estimates of flood control expenditures ran to about one million dollars. Goddard, according to Yetter, will have Department of Forest and Waters engineers in here this week to make surveys of all streams and the work required for flood control.

Meanwhile, under their "temporary and emergency" type of work Corps of Engineers has embarked on a program of cleaning debris and restoration of stream channels. This is strictly "temporary" work, said James Miller, civilian assistant to Corps of Engineers here.

Miller said a contract has already been let and work will start today on such work on Pocono Creek between Stroudsburg and Tannersville.

The work on Pocono Creek will include a check of conditions and temporary work at Pocono Park. At Tannersville a stone arch bridge will receive temporary repairs, debris will be cleaned and stream bed lowered around Tannersville school and Pocono diner. At the Jack Smiley property near Tannersville temporary dike will be erected and stream channel lowered.

Miller said the engineers are charged with work by watersheds. Local Corps of Engineers office will deal with the Delaware River watershed. Another group stationed in Lehighton will handle the Lehigh watershed.

Stoner acknowledged that stringent traffic regulations, including the roping off of some streets, may have been an inconvenience to some people. However, it was necessary to prevent would-be sightseers from retarding the clean-up operation.

Duplication of Work

Stoner explained that the Federal agency has found that planning funds have been appropriated to neighboring communities in the past and the result has been a duplication of work.

East Stroudsburg is seeking funds for plans for such long-range proposals as construction of a sewage system, an improved water filtration plant, a garbage incinerator, flood protection and street reconstruction.

Stoner said the East Stroudsburg Fire Department's Acme Hose Co. has received food and clothing from various cities and states. A dispersal center has been set up at the fire station and the needy may receive help there from 6 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Incidentally, the Acme Hose Co. has established a flood relief program and contributions can be made to Carl Michaels, president, or James Albert, treasurer. Checks should be made payable to the Acme Hose Relief Fund.

Mexico City Hit By Flood

BRONSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 5 (UPI)—The worst flood in Mexico City's recent history swamped parts of that capital today—caused by a sloppy storm called Gladys which struck the northern Mexican coast.

The storm headed toward Texas, and the Weather Bureau warned people within hundreds of miles of its path that flash floods might strike in the ravines and stream beds of north Mexico and south Texas.

The storm struck 75 miles south of Bronsville with winds estimated at 70 m.p.h.—five less than hurricane force. It had an ill-defined center—radar couldn't find it.

Squalls and stormy weather extended 350 miles from its center.

Gladys Blamed

In Mexico City, weather officials directly blamed Gladys for three days of rain which led to the floods that swept disastrously into one of the major cities of the northern hemisphere.

About four square miles of working class districts were under water. 2,000 persons were rescued from rooftops and another 3,000 still were stranded.

Two children were drowned and five more were missing.

The southern tip of Texas reported high tides and high waves. A shrimp boat had extreme difficulty reaching Port Isabel.

Residents along what is known as the middle Rio Grande—between Del Rio and Laredo—were expected to feel the worst of the storm Wednesday. But there was great danger of flash floods before then from squalls set up by the storm.

Water Company Ties In Two Major Supply Lines

ONE OF THE last major ties in the Monroe County Water Company's flood-damaged water service to Stroudsburg, was completed Saturday. This was a long step towards restoration, but it is

"DID NOT REMOVE THE REQUIREMENT THAT WATER BE BOILED BEFORE IT'S FIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION."

That connection, completed across Pocono Creek at West Main St., provided the last major circulation connection in the system between "central" Stroudsburg, Pocono Park and West Stroudsburg.

To Increase Flow

South Stroudsburg has been receiving water—although another connection affecting the Ann St. area is expected to be repaired in time to improve the flow quality of South Stroudsburg.

One of the next important moves involves testing of water in all portions of the borough while heavy dosages of chlorine are poured through mains to purify lines.

"State Health Department's sanitary engineers Saturday and Sunday began notifying East Stroudsburg school authorities, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College officials, Stroudsburg and Stroud Township school authorities to open water taps and other water usage points.

Aim of this maneuver is to have the lines well flushed with water containing heavy chlorine doses—part of the effort to purify lines pending approval of the water for human consumption without BOILING.

Early Analysis

These contacts were all completed and testing patterns were set up to cover all sections of the Borough of Stroudsburg. All samples will be sent to nearby state laboratories — probably Wilkes-Barre's Kirby Health Center — for an early analysis.

Only after all tests are run and approved will local water be pronounced fit for human consumption without boiling.

Machinery Toppled On Contractor

A WELL-known Tannersville contractor was killed last night when he was pinned beneath a heavy front-end loader which toppled from a trailer on a rural road between Swiftwater and Blackwell's Corner, shortly before 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Charles Rushmore, Monroe County coroner, said George W. Newhart, 47, died as a result of multiple skull fractures.

tips From Truck
Dr. Rushmore said Newhart was riding in a dump truck, operated by Edmond Dyson, 31, of Swiftwater. The front-end loader was being carried on a trailer attached to the truck.

Sensing that the loader was slipping, Dyson stopped the truck and Newhart climbed aboard the construction vehicle in an effort to reload it in a better position, the coroner disclosed.

Suddenly, Dr. Rushmore said, the loader fell from the trailer, tipping over and pinning Newhart beneath its weight.

Dr. David Kohn of Mount Pocono, was called to the scene and pronounced Newhart dead upon his arrival.

Survivors Listed

The victim was extricated from beneath the loader sometime later and his body was taken to the Gantzhorn funeral home in Tannersville.

He is survived by his widow, Sally; two daughters, Mrs. Robert Metzgar, Analomink, and Mrs. Horace Johnson, Tannersville, and a son, William, also of Tannersville.

In addition, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mary Newhart of Tannersville; three sisters, Mrs. Floyd Kresge, Stroudsburg; Mrs. Albert Paglinetti, Woodbury, N. J.; and Mrs. William Sebring of Indiana; and one brother, Harold, Stroudsburg.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Holiday Death Toll Mounts

By The Associated Press

TRAFFIC DEATHS mounted sharply as the Labor Day holiday drew toward a close last night.

Three hours before the weekend officially ended in the country's eastern time zone, this was the accident toll: 377 killed, 65 drowned and 73 dead in miscellaneous other accidents for an over-all total of 515.

In some cases the human destruction was wholesale. Terrific speed figured in at least two such cases—a head-on crash near Warsaw, Ky., which killed four and maimed two; jolted the speedometer of one wreck at 90 m.p.h. Near Fulton, Tenn., a car containing seven en route to a family reunion was parted jaggedly by an iron utility pole, killing five occupants.

638 Is Record

The record overall toll for a Labor Day period was 658 in 1951 when the traffic record for the holiday also was set at 461.

The National Safety Council had estimated last week that the auto toll for the present weekend would reach 400.

26 Persons Hurt In Train Wreck

BUCKY, Ohio, Sept. 5—The Pennsylvania Railroad's Manhattan Limited streaked through the early-morning Ohio haze at 70 miles an hour today and smashed into derailed cars of a freight train near here.

Twenty-six persons, most of them holiday travelers, were injured as the wreck spewed cars into an oat field and ripped up 550 feet of the main line. There were about 200 passengers.

Only five of the injured were serious enough to remain in Bucyrus City Hospital.

Airmen Sets High Altitude Speed Record

By Lee Linder

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5 (UPI)—The Air Force officially announced today that one of its pilots had flown faster than sound—averaging 822.135 miles per hour for a world high-altitude speed record.

Col. Horace A. Hanes, 39, was at the throttle of a North American F100C Super Sabre Jet when it crashed through the sound barrier in test runs eight miles up, over the Southern California desert last Aug. 29.

The record was announced today in the closing hours of the National Aircraft Show where Hanes made two simulated runs—downwind and upwind—as more than 100,000 persons looked on at International Airport. For breaking the speed mark he will receive the $350 Thompson Trophy.

Immediately after the announcement of the record Hanes flew the F100C past the reviewing stand at a speed which he said later was more than 700 miles an hour at an altitude of 600 to 700 feet.

In his record run over a special 11-mile straightaway course at Palmdale, Calif., with the wind behind him and in the other direction, Hanes was timed by extremely sensitive electronic cameras at 870.627 m.p.h. downwind, and 773.644 m.p.h. upwind.

The mark bettered by more than 70 miles per hour the record of 755 m.p.h. established Oct. 29, 1953, by Lt. Col. F. A. (Pete) Everest over a nine-mile course at California's Salton's Sea and in an older version of North America's supersonic jet.

Last year's Thompson Trophy in the air show held at Dayton, Ohio, was won by Capt. Eugene Sonnenberg of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., who piloted a North American F-86D Sabre Jet at a speed of 692 m.p.h.

Yeager's Record

While today's announcement was the first officially recorded supersonic speed run, the Air Force said that jet pilot Maj. Charles Yeager had previously more than doubled the speed of sound, reaching a speed of approximately 1,630 m.p.h.

The speed of sound is officially listed at 769 m.p.h. hour at sea level.

Seven Air Force jets zoomed from California to Pennsylvania in four hours or less yesterday, but, hindered by uncooperative winds, failed to set any speed record.

Flood Aid Distribution

Meanwhile, the State Highways Dept. went ahead with preparing regulations for distributing 15 million dollars in highway aid to flood-stricken communities.

Municipalities must file an application in writing with the department listing the estimated damage to streets, roads and bridges and citing how much they have spent on their own in repairs.

After all applications are in, the department recommends allocation of the money subject to approval of the State Civil Defense Council.

Leader signed a $7 million dollar flood relief program last Saturday within nine hours after it passed the Legislature finally in a post-midnight session.

The governor called on the lawmakers "to serve the public generally" on an over-all tax program as it did in boosting gasoline and cigarette taxes to raise emergency flood funds.

Tax Program

1. Increasing the gasoline tax from five cents a gallon to six cents, effective Sept. 13, to raise $4 million dollars in the next two years.

2. Allocating the $4 millions to give the State Highways Dept. $30 million for repairing flood-destroyed highways and bridges and $15 millions to flood-hit municipalities to do the same work on the local level. The remainder would be distributed for roads to communities over the state, not necessarily for flood use.

3. Boosting the cigarette tax from four cents a pack to five cents, effective Oct. 1, to raise $2 million dollars.

4. Allocating this $2 millions by turning over $12 millions to state departments for flood work, including $9 millions for stream rectification, and setting up the remaining $8 millions as a special fund to meet future disasters.

Assistance Coordinated

5. Removing the week's waiting period in paying jobless benefits to workers idled by last month's flood and make certain that such payments don't affect individual employees' accounts.

6. Authorizing the State Civil Defense Council to coordinate federal assistance in major disasters and provide for paying $1,000 for death incurred by civil defense volunteers on duty and up to $750 for injuries.

The Legislature stayed in session all week to pass the program.

In another development, the governor said the Commonwealth's tax needs for the 1955-57 biennium have been reduced by $1 million dollars thanks to governmental economies under his administration.

The savings, he said, were accomplished by lapsing $4 million dollars in appropriations rather than $18 million estimated previously.

"This is what I meant all along about careful control and wise spending in government," Leader declared. "These are the savings I have been referring to."

A lapsed appropriation is the difference between funds allocated to a department and money actually spent by the department during the two-year period.

Now $57 Million

The $1 million dollar reduction now brings down to $47 million dollars the amount of new revenue needed to balance the budget proposed by the governor. In his budget message last April he sought $25 million.

Since the governor has increased his revenue estimates by $1 million, a seven million dollar error in the school teachers retirement fund needs and 10 million dollars in pre-paid school subsidies also brought the tax need figure down.

Meanwhile, Sen. Hugh J. McMenamin (D-Lackawanna) drafted a resolution for introduction after Sept. 12 which criticizes the Leader administration on patronage.

Specifically naming Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro for a recent announcement that employees in state hospitals must not participate in politics, McMenamin said:

"The specifications for employees of the department certainly ought to be applied against all department officials without fear or favor."

He said that since Shapiro's appointment was politically inspired, sponsored and made, he should be disqualified as secretary.

VFW Posts Contribute Flood Aid

DONATIONS to the Thomas P. Lambert Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, have poured in during the past week.

Post officials said last night that out-of-State posts have donated heavily to the post-flood relief work being carried on by the local VFW.

Among the contributions was a convoy of trucks loaded with fresh fruit and vegetables sent into the Stroudsburg area by Irvington, N. J., VFW post. The trucks also contained canned goods and other supplies.

Trucks to haul the contributions were donated by a Newark, N. J., brewery, the local post said. The Irvington post has also indicated it will send furniture into the Stroudsburg area.

A Check For $1,005

Another arrival on Saturday was a truck from Uniondale, Long Island, N. Y. The truck contained clothing and shoes.

Men in charge of the truck were VFW Post Commander Bishop and member, Joe DeSanto. They brought with them a check for $1,005. The money is to be used to augment rehabilitation of local post members who suffered from flood loss.

Distribution of the food, clothing and other provisions is being supervised by Howard Mount, post service officer. He will be assisted by members of the post and its auxiliary.

The local post was also visited Sunday by several of the high officers of the National VFW organization on their way back from the annual convention in Boston.

REGULATIONS LISTED

"Full coils of stamps may be accepted and exchanged for usable coils of the same denomination. Coils which have been partially used and adhered books of stamps and sheets of stamps must be separated by the patrons and pasted on sheets of paper to facilitate and minimize the handling in the post office. The separation may be easily accomplished by soaking in a small amount of warm water and in pasting the stamps on sheets of paper. Not more than 100 stamps should be pasted on one sheet. In computing the redemption value to be allowed, only stamps in a substantially whole condition should be considered."

School Cafeteria Opens Wednesday

TANNERSVILLE — Pocono Township School cafeteria will be open to serve students on Wednesday when the school itself opens for the new year.

Mrs. Russell Werkheiser will be in charge of the cafeteria. Announcement of the opening in time to serve meals on the first day of school—the scheduled opening date—was made by Lawrence Wile, school principal.

Pupils Reluctant

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (UPI)—An East German teachers' conference at Magdeburg has noted with alarm that 30 to 50 per cent of the pupils show "completely insufficient" results in obligatory Russian language courses. The teachers blamed the pupils and their parents. They said many oppose Russian courses because they think they will have little use later for the knowledge of Russian.

Nixon Says GOP Leaders Think Ike To Run Again

DENVER, Sept. 5 (UPI)—Vice President Nixon said today those closest to President Eisenhower—and "the overwhelming majority of Republican leaders" throughout the country—are more optimistic than ever that he will run for re-election.

Nixon made the statement to newsmen after an hour-long Labor Day conference with Eisenhower on national security problems. Nixon stressed that he discussed no politics, but said the impression is general in the Republican party that Eisenhower will decide to bid for a second term.

As for the President's health—which Eisenhower has said will be a principal factor in his decision—Nixon had this to say:

In Tip-Top Shape

"I have never seen the president look better. I feel that he is in tip-top shape physically and mentally in his attitude toward his job."

Nixon also said "the job has become easier" for Eisenhower "the longer he is in it." He added that the President has it so well organized that he now is able to concentrate on the great and important issues" and turn over less important matters to aides.

Nixon's news conference at the summer White House also dealt with these topics:

MCCARTHY—The vice president declared he believes Sen. McCarthy is "through" as a political threat to Eisenhower and as "a major divisive force within the Republican party."

Nixon said McCarthy was such a force last year at the time of the 1954 elections—when the Republicans lost control of Congress to the Democrats. He added:

"Our political history shows that when an individual takes on the top man and wins, he (the individual) grows. But when you make a frontal assault, if you lose you are through. And that is what happened on this issue."

Sees Horse Race

DEMOCRATS—As for the 1956 contest for the Democratic presidential nomination, Nixon said that at this point "it looks like a horse race" between Adlai Stevenson, who was the 1952 nominee; Gov. Averell Harriman of New York; and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Governing Bodies Advised Concerning Reimbursements

Funds Cover Work Done Or Planned

REPRESENTATIVES of boroughs, townships and Monroe County were told Saturday how to apply for aid covering outlays already made, or still to be made, from Federal Civil Defense Administration. This aid is for "temporary, emergency repairs" and restorations to roads, bridges and other installations.

The test for this type of reimbursement is that the work must be "temporary and emergency" repairs where the "public welfare, public health" is affected by an existing condition on public domain, or in the case of private property, where a menace to public welfare and health exists.

James Miller, assistant to the Corps of Engineers located at Stroudsburg Municipal Building urged commissioners, councilmen and supervisors to file their applications promptly. He particularly urged that applications be filed immediately where Corps of Engineers has let contracts for cleanup work and other work in the municipalities.

Permanent Aid Work

Dan Bailey, state-wide township engineer for the Highways Department, said emergency legislation providing for state funds to aid municipalities provides ample money for restoration of roads and bridges. This aid is for permanent work, taking up where "temporary, emergency" aid ends.

This measure takes $15 million out of Motor License Fund for payment to political subdivisions for repairs of roads, streets and bridges.

It provides that the political subdivision submit within 60 days to the Department of Highways a statement of specific damages; what has been done and what was required to do it, and estimates of additional work needed for flood restoration.

The statement must show the municipality has made a substantial effort toward restoration and that it has applied for federal aid and the amount of such aid it has received or been granted.

CD Approval Required

These applications go to the Secretary of Highways and must first be approved by State Council of Civil Defense for as much funds as applications justify, Bailey said. Once approved, money is paid to the treasurer of the sub-division.

Actual forms, rules and regulations are being rushed to the printer, he said.

Bailey emphasized the municipalities must have applied for federal aid; that the state appropriations are for restoration on a permanent basis and that complete list of damages, setting forth payments already made with supporting evidence.

It will be possible, Bailey said, to get partial payments on not less than a monthly basis and for expenditure of $1,000 or more. All work done will be under Pennsylvania Department of Highways specifications.

Applications will first be processed by the district township engineer, Dale Daubert, then moved on to state headquarters.

Must File Applications

Mr. Miller, of the Corps of Engineers, said applications for work already done with Federal Civil Defense Administration funds under contracts let by the Corps of Engineers, or for "temporary, emergency work" involving public welfare and health, must be filed as an original with nine copies.

He said these applications should be obtained soon from the coordinator of Civil Defense in the county. Miller emphasized that to collect for work done by the municipality, all amounts must be justified with payroll sheets, vouchers for gasoline, extra equipment, damaged fire hose used in pumping, etc.

He advised it is urgent applications be sent in immediately so Engineers can review them from an engineering standpoint. These applications are roughly in three parts, Miller said.

HOW IT'S DONE — Here's representatives of Monroe County's 20 townships and four boroughs, plus the County of Monroe to learn all about how to apply for Federal Civil Defense (Corps of Engineers) aid for rehabilitation, and how to apply for aid from the State for permanent repairs and restoration. Director Denies Laboratory Soliciting For Water Tests

DURING THE past four days residents of the West End area have registered some complaints that a person purporting to represent a water-testing laboratory has been soliciting door-to-door in that region.

In so doing, some residents complain, the solicitor has used "scare" techniques. Some residents have apparently gotten the misconception that he represents a laboratory in Stroudsburg.

Slee also pointed out that his laboratory is only one of several in the Northeastern District of the State which is licensed to make water tests. There are labs in Allentown, Easton, Bethlehem and Scranton, he pointed out.

How To Disinfect

State sanitarians have distributed literature throughout the county telling residents how to disinfect and clean private water supplies.

At present, representatives of the State health department are calling on numerous places where water is being supplied to the public. No charge is made for any work done by State workers. The State service is not geared to the testing of private water supplies, however.

Slee is now serving as consultant to the Stroudsburg Borough board of health. During the early stages of the present emergency he was health coordinator for Civil Defense in Monroe County.

Police Chief Injured In 'Cycle Mishap

CHIEF OF Police James F. McConnel of Stroudsburg suffered a severe shoulder injury yesterday at noon when his motorcycle skidded on Fourth St. and threw him to the pavement.

He was treated at General Hospital for a dislocation and fracture of the right shoulder, and removed to his home to recuperate.

The police motorcycle is said to have skidded on a patch of calcium chloride, which had been placed on the street to settle the accumulation of dust resulting from the flood.

Assistant Police Chief John Tretheway will serve as acting chief during Mr. McConnell's convalescence.

Media Woman Stricken Ill With Polio

A 24-YEAR-OLD Media woman, who had been ill before coming to Monroe County for a weekend visit, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem Sunday.

Her illness was diagnosed as polio there yesterday morning by hospital authorities. She is Mrs. Paul Cope Jr., of 641 South Ave., Media.

Members of the family told the Tobbyanna Township physician who was called in on the case that Mrs. Cope had "not been feeling well" before she left her home in Media for the weekend.

She became seriously ill after arriving here. Dr. James G. Kitche, the physician who consulted on the case, said last night the illness "did not originate in this town."

Dr. R. Frederick Jones, Monroe County medical officer, said that no cases of polio have been reported among residents of this county during this year.

Heavy Traffic Kept Rolling Over Holiday

DESPITE heavy traffic on all highways, cars, trucks and buses kept moving at a near-normal pace over the long Labor Day weekend.

"It's been the heaviest traffic I've ever seen," remarked Claude E. Metzgar, district highway superintendent.

Metzgar said Route 611 is open all the way from Ninth and Main Sts. in Stroudsburg to Scranton, while Route 209 is open from here to Canadensis and from Canadensis to the Pike County line.

At one time, Metzgar said, 47 bridges were out in Monroe County. About one-third of these may have been replaced with temporary spans.

Henryville Situation

"The only place where anyone is yet stranded in this county," said Metzgar, "is in a small section of Henryville—and that should be corrected in a few days."

Metzgar said present plans are to open a temporary span replacing the State bridge between the twin boroughs sometime today. The new bridge would have been opened yesterday, he added, had it not been that a large amount of electric welding was not completed in time.

The highway department official also disclosed that a new bridge over Pocono Creek on W. Main St. should be completed in "two or three days."

Bridges have been erected on Legislative Route 45033 between Bartonsville and Snyderdale, on Route 940 between Pocono Gates and Pocono Manor, on Legislative Route 45034 between Swiftwater and Paradise Valley and on Route 209 at Bushkill.

Traffic Restored

In addition, Metzgar disclosed, Legislative Route 45025, between Analamink and Swiftwater is open all the way, and traffic has resumed on Legislative Route 45026 between Meisertown and Henryville. Also reopened is 45081 between Reeder and Cherry Lane.

Route 115 is open between Saylorsburg and Blakeslee, he reported, as well as 45034 between Swiftwater and Paradise Valley. And traffic is rolling on Route 90 from East Stroudsburg to Stites Bridge in Paradise Valley.

State's Emergency Taxes For "Flood Relief" Should Be Confined To That

Few Pennsylvanians can object seriously or reasonably to levying emergency taxes for the relief of distress brought on by the death-dealing floods that struck the north-eastern section of our state.

Of course, some would rather not have the special taxes. But those who suffered would rather not have had the flood, either. Scores were killed and injured. Hundreds lost their homes, their jobs and businesses.

It's the humane thing for all to pitch in and help fellow Pennsylvanians in their hour of grave need.

Gov. George M. Leader and leaders of the Legislature showed a willingness to forget their political differences in this calamity. They decided to raise the cigaret tax from four to five cents a pack and the gasoline tax from five to six cents a gallon in an effort to meet the emergency.

The expected revenue from the cigaret rate increase is from 10 to 12 million dollars a year. This will be used for medicine, food, clothing, etc.

Disciplined Control Over Licensing Those Who Have Been Mentally Ill Sound

Recently introduced legislation in the present session of Pennsylvania's General Assembly proposes a more disciplined control over drivers' licenses for those who have been mentally ill, and we hope that this measure will receive the recognition it deserves.

It doubtless comes as a surprise to most of us that there are not presently adequate controls for those unfortunate people who have been the victims of mental derangements, however temporary. The thought that a man or woman who has had to undergo mental hospital treatment is one of those drivers with whom we share our streets and highways is not a particularly comforting one.

As a matter of fact it would appear that there are always enough individuals, not officially listed as mental cases but acting as though that were the case as they drive

About 45 million dollars is expected from the higher gasoline tax and that will help rebuild the bridges and highways swept away or heavily damaged by the flood waters.

As stated before, no one can kick too much about this. The same help would be given any part of Pennsylvania struck by such a major catastrophe. But there are some questions that rightfully can be asked.

The gasoline and cigaret tax increases are to go on the books as emergency measures for a specified time—about a year is the estimate. But the history of most emergency taxes is that the emergency never ends and that the temporary taxes become permanent taxes.

The Legislature and the administration of Governor Leader should make it plain that these are emergency taxes to be levied for a short time and for one purpose only—to put the flooded areas back in business and to relieve human want and suffering.

Inside Washington

Washington—The Eisenhower administration is becoming alarmed at inflationary tendencies after successfully riding out the extremely mild "recession" or "readjustment" of 1953-54.

In a one-two punch directed against trends in the economic picture which might reduce the value of the dollar, the government has upped the requirements on home purchase down payments and increased the interest rates on money loaned to banks.

The first order came through the housing and veterans administrations. The second, ordered by the Federal Reserve System—means that banks will have to curb lending to businesses and private citizens. The Federal Reserve order hiked the interest rate—or discount rate—in some areas than others, an unusual practice which indicates that the credit buying binge is not so serious that blanket restrictions need be applied.

The general problem as seen by Washington officials, is that credit buying is being over-extended to the point where it may become dangerous to the nation's economy. The trick is to let some of the air out of the ballooning economy without having it fall limp at the feet of the administration.

GOP Relief—The pressure was really on President Eisenhower to get rid of Harold E. Talbott as secretary of air.

After the Senate committee started its probe of Talbott's private business activities several Republican senators began working behind the scenes to have Talbott removed.

The pressure increased as more GOPers decided Talbott would be a troublesome weight around the elephant's neck in next year's elections.

Finally the Republican National committee itself decided that Talbott must go.

The position of those inside the GOP command was given by a high official on the day the White House announced the United States decision to launch an earth satellite.

This official who had been informed an announcement was coming from the White House, was later told that it was about the satellite. He remarked dryly: "Why couldn't it have been Talbott?"

Exit Knowland?—Senator William F. Knowland (R), California, still considers the possibility of quitting as Republican Senate leader if the administration turns its back on Chaing Kai-shek.

Knowland is a long-time advocate of a "get tough" policy with Peiping. He wants no deals whereby the United States will make any concessions to the Chinese Reds, or allow them to occupy any of Chiang's off-shore islands.

His chief fear seems to be that current United States-Chinese talks in Geneva may lead to a declaration by the administration that it plans no defense of the off-shore islands.

However, Knowland has made it clear he has no objection to the Geneva talks.

When Senator Joseph McCarthy rose in the Senate to accuse the President of "betraying the country trust" by agreeing to "concrete measures of appeasement," Knowland retorted that no ideals had been made at the summit talks regarding the off-shore islands or the release of the 11 United States flyers.

31-Knot-Burke Upset Privacy Of Natives

Robert S. Allen is on vacation. In his absence his column today is by a guest syndicated widely esteemed Southern newspaperman, Bert Strubry, editor of the Macon Telegraph, and veteran of World War Two, writes a bold, manly and unusual vignette of Admiral Arleigh Burke, new Chief of Naval Operations.)

By Bert Struby
Editor, Macon Telegraph

Macon, Georgia, September 6:

The appointment of Admiral Arleigh Burke as Chief of Naval Operations recalls an unpublished story which might be termed the backwash of his colorful 31-knot tactics in the South Pacific.

It was a far-away place with a strange sounding name.

In order to reach this base the destroyers had to cruise through the straits, either departing or returning almost daily.

Whether "31-knot" Burke was aboard for these particular operations, I do not recall. But the ship either were then, or shortly before had been, his squadron and speed was the essence of their tactics. Thus they plowed full throttle down the course between the islands, in haste to carry out their mission, or in haste to anchor for a brief respite.

Ordinarily this would have made little difference to the natives. But in these particular islands, they had been taught by the white men to build their own small rough docks from the beach out into the waters for private ships.

The scene was in the New Georgia area of the Solomon Islands, a setting with all of the picturesqueness beauty of the South Pacific that any movie producer could imagine.

You won't find the name on maps of the Pacific, but naval charts list an island known as Kolombangara and GIs who saw service in the area will recall it. Settled by natives and a few white men who oversaw the vast coconut plantations and copra operations, it is an emerald green spot bordered by the crystal white sands of its beach.

The war disturbed life's peace and solitude on Kolombangara. First, bombardments and jungle fighting wrecked many of the tall, stately coconut trees which had been so carefully nurtured for years. Then, as the Yanks drove out the Japs, they established a supply base and moved troops into the area. Perhaps the tropical growth today has entirely erased the imprint GIs left on this island paradise, but I doubt it.

Finally, speeding destroyers brought consternation beyond imagination to the private lives of the natives.

Through the straits which formed the cluster of islands which formed the Kolombangara group there was a quiet, protected lagoon ideal for anchoring men-of-war. The first order came through the housing and veterans administrations. The second, ordered by the Federal Reserve System—means that banks will have to curb lending to businesses and private citizens. The Federal Reserve order hiked the interest rate—or discount rate—in some areas than others, an unusual practice which indicates that the credit buying binge is not so serious that blanket restrictions need be applied.

Housewives Simmer But It's The Water That Boils For Sake Of Family's Health

By Bobby Westbrook

"I hate to think of our fuel bill at the end of this month," sighs the weary housewife, boiling up another batch of water. "Better fuel bills than doctor bills," health authorities warn as they continue to urge every precaution be taken with water which is to be used for drinking, washing dishes, or brushing teeth. "Granted," retorts the housewife, "and I'm following instructions to the letter, but" (under her breath) "I wish you had to do it for just one day."

One day's supply of sterile water necessary to keep a household functioning is enough to keep the kitchen windows steamed up pretty much of the time, housewives have discovered. They have also discovered that 20 minutes is a long wait for water that's needed immediately. That is the minimum time authorities advise that it should be boiled.

There's A Reason

In their resentment, many women are expressing their conviction that the health authorities are hypochondriacs with a phobia about water, and are putting them to a lot of extra work and bother just to be sounding efficient and to have something to put in their records. The flood was two weeks ago, they reason, and in that time all of the contamination or whatever it is they're fussing about must have evaporated or settled or something, and besides the tap water is full of enough chemicals to kill any self-respecting germ.

"Not so!" say the health authorities. What the layman forgets is that during the period of broken water mains and flooded reservoirs, the contaminated water was sucked into the pipes and continues to circulate. Even when the source of water has been purified, there will be contaminated water in the pipes through the towns and in the homes.

Moreover, when people are over-tired and have overextended their energy, they're more susceptible to disease than any other time. It would be a shame, having lived through the worst of the disaster to have a recovering community truck down by an epidemic of illnesses.

So until the authorities say "go ahead, drink," the women had better "Boil" — the water, that is, not their dispositions.

Now About Shampoos

Though as any woman can tell you the state of their dispositions depends a lot on the state of their hair. After a certain point many women are going to wash their crowning glory — no matter what the health authorities say — no matter how many beauty shops are closed — no matter, even, if there should be lizards in the tap water, let alone germs.

And what do the health authorities say about shampooing hair? "Don't! Not in contaminated water," that's what they say.

"If women feel they absolutely must wash their hair, I'd suggest they go up to Buck Hill or Skystop and engage a room," suggested Arthur M. See, consultant to Stroudsburg board of health. "Certainly we're not going to issue any hints on how to shampoo hair at a time like this."

In the absence of official comment, some local individuals have used their own initiative. In addition to lugging home drinking water from the certified-pure drinking water trucks, they've carried home an extra jug for hair-washing.

Using the old basin and cup method, they have discovered that it takes about a gallon of water to do a fairly satisfactory shampoo. That gallon may cost the municipalities something for carting, but it's faster and cheaper for the individual than a trip to a resort.

Washstands Return

As a matter of fact the washstand of the past century with its carafe of water, its bowl and its pitcher has its counterpart in many a modern tiled bathroom with stall showers (not to be used) and gleaming tub (to be used with discretion). The old-fashioned wash stand simplifies the tasks of brushing teeth with certified water and answering the "I wanna drink" calls of sleep-fighting toddlers.

"Better be safe than sorry," should be the slogan of the day and "Patience!" the watchword. Eventually water supplies will be restored to normal and residents can drink it, shampoo with it, even gargle or swim in it, if they like, just as it comes from the tap.

Boiled Ice Cubes

Meanwhile, they might boil up a double batch get it good and cold, add antiseptic boiled ice cubes in for a drink — served in paper cups, of course, or cups which have been washed in water which has been boiled at a rapid, rolling boil for at least 20 minutes.

"Your good health!" is the toast the health authorities would have you propose.

No SPCA This Week

The Monroe County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will not meet at its scheduled time this Thursday. The date of the September meeting will be announced later in the month.

In Easton Hospital

Isaac Hoosier, Stroudsburg RD, has been admitted to the Easton Hospital for surgical treatment. Elizabeth Samp, of Saylorsburg, was admitted at the weekend as a special case.

City Teen-agers Volunteer For Clean-Up Here

"We hate to leave with so much to be done," the weary young volunteers agreed yesterday afternoon as they removed their mud-stained boots.

They were members of a group of about 46 young people in their late teens, members of the Society of Friends from the New York and Philadelphia areas who had volunteered to work during the Labor Day weekend in the flood stricken areas.

Arriving Friday night, the girls were quartered in the junior and intermediate departments of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church school and the boys in the Odd Fellows Hall on Main Street. They started to work on Saturday morning in the First and Second Streets area, helping homeowners to clean out their homes.

Judging from their mud-stained clothes and worn work gloves they had given more than token help.

"There's so much to do, that it's hard to see what we've accomplished," they sighed. "But the people really did appreciate our help, and we did release some of those other volunteers who've been working all week long."

Suggest Nursery School

Last night they were cleaning up, preparatory to returning to school or to jobs in the cities. One other thing bothered them besides leaving so much work undone.

"Some group ought to start a nursery school," they suggested. "There are all those little children down there playing in that mud while their parents are trying to get the homes back in shape. If the parents had somewhere to leave them through the day, the work would go faster and the children would be safer."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Queerest Labor Day we've had, till yet, Oh you could find traffic, all right, but not in its usual place. Getting back and forth between the two towns was a somewhat tedious job, but the towns themselves were close ghost-like in comparison with ordinary Labor Day—or even ordinary Sunday traffic.

But everybody was laboring like anything. Down at the Shawnee Island, the cottagers—the ones who still had remnants of cottages left—were busy salvaging what they could, and sort of envying those whose cottages had been swept away entirely. At least they didn't have to clean up before they began building all over again.

That's the amazing thing about people. With the first shock they decide that they'll just give up—all those years of labor and work gone for nothing. But then they start remembering the cool nights and leisurely days, the way the children or the grandchildren have loved it—and the first thing you know they're in there digging away again.

Digging away at that mountain of donated clothing, the volunteers were functioning all through the weekend, and that's a job that's going to go on for some time, so maybe you'd better volunteer to help, too.

Clothing and feeding stations, furniture warehouses and food depots are going to drag on for some months, and the tendency is to grow weary of well-doing if the burden is too great. However, with an expanded list of dependent volunteers signed up for definite hours, the chores shouldn't be heavy for anyone.

Digging away at that mountain of donated clothing, the volunteers were functioning all through the weekend, and that's a job that's going to go on for some time, so maybe you'd better volunteer to help, too.

Ladies Days At Glen Brook May Be Resumed

The Thursday Ladies Day luncheons at Glen Brook County Club were suspended during the emergency, with most of the women engaged full-time in volunteer activities. Now with the volunteer activities being scheduled for more volunteers on a part-time basis, the luncheons will be resumed for those women free to attend.

Reservations should be made at the club before Wednesday noon. There will be no tournaments but members having matches scheduled before the flood may wish to play them off or informal foursomes may be organized.

From here on, the big job will have to be done, not by tremendous spurts of effort that leaves the volunteer exhausted, but by sustained and responsible service at a definite job at a definite time. And being where you promised to be when.

Miss Harris Is Bride Of D. S. Wasser

Bangor—Miss Constance Elaine Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Harris, of 315 Lobb Avenue, Pen Argyl, and Darrold Stanley Wasser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wasser, of Bangor, RD 3, were married on Saturday, September 3, at 3 p.m., in the Evangelical United Brethren Church, Pen Argyl.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of white lace trimmed in satin. She wore white accessories and carried a white Bible with white orchid.

Mrs. Anita Pagano, of Atlantic City, N. J., was her matron of honor. She wore a street-length dress of blue lace trimmed in satin and blue accessories. Her colonial bouquet was of pink roses.

Some group ought to start a nursery school," they suggested. "There are all those little children down there playing in that mud while their parents are trying to get the homes back in shape. If the parents had somewhere to leave them through the day, the work would go faster and the children would be safer."

The bride is a graduate of Pen Argyl Area Joint High School and employed at Blue Valley Sports-

lust. The bridegroom is a graduate of Bangor High School and is employed at Dotta Auto Sales in the Paint and Body shop. He served two years in the United States Army, including a 15-month tour of duty in Alaska.

CB Woman's Club Plans Visit To County Home

Members of the CB Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Audrey Martin, McMichael, on Wednesday night, August 17. Madalyn Relm presided during the business meeting when a letter was read, thanking the members for the sheets and pillow cases they had made for the Bethany Orphanage at Sunbury.

Plans were made to visit the County Home in Snyderville on September 21. All who plan to make the trip are asked to meet at the home of Betty Leuber at 6:30 on that date.

Game prizes were awarded to Rena Shick, Joyce Hartzhorn, Frances Singer, Bea Lotz and Dolores Everett.

Refreshments were served by Audrey and Mazine Martin. Other members present not mentioned were Betty Leuber, Eleanor Gower and Eleanor Martin.

Digging away at that mountain of donated clothing, the volunteers were functioning all through the weekend, and that's a job that's going to go on for some time, so maybe you'd better volunteer to help, too.

Ladies Days At Glen Brook May Be Resumed

The Thursday Ladies Day luncheons at Glen Brook County Club were suspended during the emergency, with most of the women engaged full-time in volunteer activities. Now with the volunteer activities being scheduled for more volunteers on a part-time basis, the luncheons will be resumed for those women free to attend.

Reservations should be made at the club before Wednesday noon. There will be no tournaments but members having matches scheduled before the flood may wish to play them off or informal foursomes may be organized.

From here on, the big job will have to be done, not by tremendous spurts of effort that leaves the volunteer exhausted, but by sustained and responsible service at a definite job at a definite time. And being where you promised to be when.

Blossoming Pear Seems Omen For Recovery Here

A pear tree sprang into blossom over the weekend in the backyard of Mrs. Clara Catlin's home at 614 Sarah Street.

It was a strange occurrence in several ways.

Most strange, it might be pointed out, is the fact that the tree had already bloomed once. This first blossoming happened in early Spring when pear trees are theoretically supposed to bring forth flowers.

The dwarf tree then went right ahead with its normal growth. By June clusters of pears appeared on its branches. The pears were ready to be picked the week of the flood.

To Bloom Again

Suddenly, on Saturday, Mrs. Catlin's son (H. D. Catlin) walked out in the backyard. He yelled to his mother when he saw the tree.

There, on most of the branches, there were new blossoms, shining white and bright in the midst of the heavy-hanging pears.

Neither Mrs. Catlin nor her son can offer an explanation. Was it the sudden downpour of rain after a long Summer's dryness? Or was it just another trick of Nature?

Those who wish to draw symbolism from the sudden re-birth of the pear tree last night saw it as a shining indication that from devastation can come new life. There were some indications over the weekend—as reconstruction began to shape up in the borough—that they were right.

Fancy Frills Add Flourish To Fashions

By Nadeane Walker

Paris — "Ornaments and trimmings are of little importance to today's fashions," Christian Dior recently told a Sorbonne University audience.

What he meant was that clothes now have a stripped-down simplicity of cut. But take a tour through the new fall '55 collections and you'll see plenty of the fashion frills that make Paris look like a trolley bus.

During the meeting plans will be made for the approaching High Holy Days, and the group will discuss how they can aid in the reconstruction of the community.

Episcopal Women Will Worship Thurs.

All of the women of Christ Episcopal Church, Stroudsburg, are invited to share in a service of Thanksgiving and Holy Communion on Thursday morning at 10 a.m. in Christ Church. This service is scheduled for the same time as the service at the Triennial Convention being held in Honolulu.

At that time the Thank Offering of the local church will be presented with other offerings from this area, by Miss Frances Hall, U. T. C., treasurer, who is a delegate to the convention.

After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Wasser will be at home after September 17 at Bangor, RD 2.

The bride is a graduate of Pen Argyl Area Joint High School and employed at Blue Valley Sports-

lust. The bridegroom is a graduate of Bangor High School and is employed at Dotta Auto Sales in the Paint and Body shop.

Jacques Heim had a puppy muff—at least there was a puppy in it when a mannequin paraded it at the press opening. The muff was spotted ocelot fur. The pup was suspected to be a mongrel, but everybody thought he was a dachshund.

Balmain used snap-buttons fox-head hat with diamond eyes and long diamond eyelashes.

Genevieve Fath's cutest trick was for an satin bracelet cuff, halfway between the wrist and elbow, sometimes with a jewel tucked in.

Balmain used snap-buttons leather trimmings and hip belts below a natural, fitted waistline.

Griffe resorted to layer-cake flounces in tiers of three, and double rows of glittery rhinestone or cut-set buttons.

Launiv-Castillo whipped up sequin lashings, fisheye embroideries, and flower-scalloped hem.

Maggie Rouff got a second glance with mismatched heels—ruby red heels on emerald green pumps, for example.

Desses dished out hi-low belts, curved from bust to bottom; mink shoulder straps and hip bows.

Patou contributed criss-cross waistline drapery.

Chanel — well, "a string of beads is all she needs." It's a yard-long string, though, with pearls and diamonds alternating. Real pearls and diamonds, rumor says, for they whisper that Coco Chanel has her own fabulous jewels to 60.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Paul Myers, Mrs. Raymond Scott, Mrs. Ralph Miller, Mrs. Elbert LaBar, Mrs. Arthur Reagie, Mrs. Robert Hamill, Mrs. Herbert Transue, Mrs. Carl Ettinger, Mrs. Augustus Garrison, Mrs. Walter Emery, Mrs. Robert Carr, Ernest Courtney, Mrs. John A. Ribble, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pysher.

Tentative plans were made for a talent show before the holidays. The annual Halloween parade was scheduled for October 26 or October 31 as rain dates.

Dr. Hayes, 78-Year-Old Dentist Dies

DR. WILLIAM F. HAYES, a dentist here for more than half a century, died at 2 a.m. yesterday at the home of his son in Summit, N.J. He was 78.

Dr. Hayes was graduated by the Pennsylvania Dental School, Philadelphia, in 1898. He practised dentistry here from that year until 1955. He moved to Summit six months ago.

A resident of 619 Main St., Dr. Hayes was born in Stroudsburg and was the son of the late Thomas and Ariella (Albert) Hayes. His wife, the former Florence Warner, passed away six months ago.

Affiliations

He was a member of Zion Reformed Church, Barger Lodge F&AM, Knights of Malta and Knights of Pythias.

He is survived by a son, Edward M. Hayes, Summit, N.J.; a brother, Jess T. Hayes, Mentor, O., and two grandchildren.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday from the William R. Thomas funeral home, with Revs. Frank H. Blatt and P. N. Wohsen, D.D., officiating. Burial will be in Stroudsburg Cemetery.

There will be no viewing.

5,000 View Parade At Pen Argyl

PEN ARGYL—The Lookout Fire Co. held its 20th anniversary parade and celebration over the weekend. About 5,000 people lined the streets of Pen Argyl yesterday afternoon to view the five-division parade of bands, drum corps and firemen.

Parading firemen represented communities of Bangor, Wind Gap, Nazareth, Tatamy, West Easton, and York, Pa., Phillipsburg, Hope, Alpha and Hackettstown, N.J.

American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps of Bangor, Hackettstown, Nazareth, Pen Argyl, and York led the divisional parade which also included women's auxiliaries, girl scouts and brownie troops, the Tatamy Fire Co. band, the Washington Township Consolidated School band, and mechanized fire equipment.

A carnival celebration was held at Weona Park here.

Three Freed By Russians

BERLIN, Sept. 5—Three mystery men returned to U.S. custody tonight after seven years in Soviet captivity.

The Russians turned the trio over to American authorities at noon in East Berlin, acting on a request from the State Department based on reports received from other returnees.

No one here knows much yet about any of the three—why they were in Soviet hands for so long or how they got there.

Unusual Delivery

The Russian method of delivering them was unusual. Soviet authorities notified the U.S. Army to come and get the men at their Karlskrona headquarters. A liaison team left by car from West Berlin to make the 10-mile trip. But a U.S. State Department official went to the Soviet consulate to pick up a transit visa and was buttonholed by a Russian who said:

"By the way, will you sign this receipt for these three Americans?"

The official signed the receipt and found himself in possession of it.

Pvt. Wilfred C. Cumish, missing from Vienna since 1948.

Cpl. Murray Fields, missing from the U.S. constabulary in Nuernberg since 1948.

Frederick Charles Hopkins, a civilian, otherwise unidentified.

Placed Under Arrest

The official, A.E. Dubois, took the three to the U.S. provost marshal's office, where they immediately were placed under arrest and sent to the Army hospital for complete medical examinations. All were held incommunicado.

There was confusion about the names of both the soldiers. A sister of Cumish in Rowley, Mass., Mrs. Burton Martin, said his name properly is Kumis. But the Army lists it as Cumish.

Fields identified himself as Cpl. Michael Feingersch, although the Army payrolls always listed him as Fields. His sister in Bayside, Queens, N.Y., Mrs. Herman J. Bailes, explained that he had changed his name legally years ago.

"But considering the strain he must be under, he probably thought of his family name first."

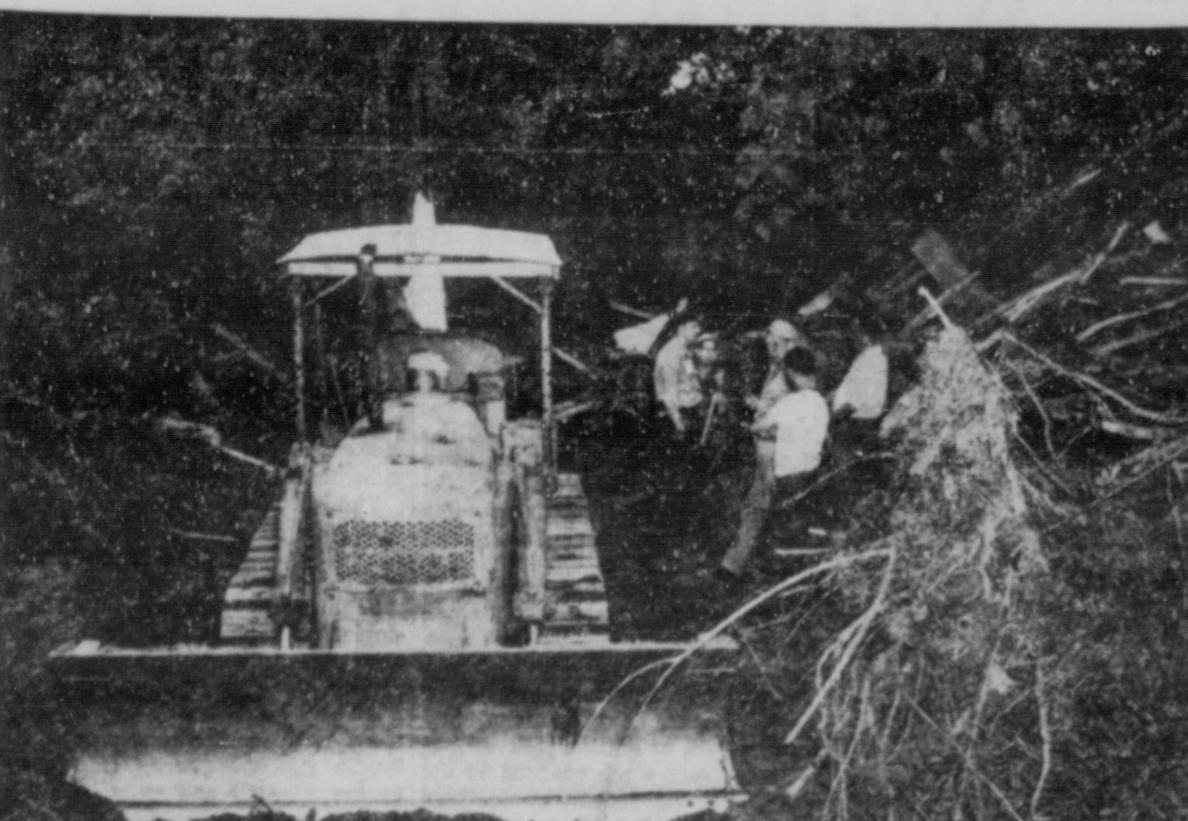

Hopkins said he was a soldier but the Army said it never heard of him.

Discharged from Army

Mrs. Bailes said her brother was honorably discharged from the Army before the United States entered World War II, served in the Merchant Marine and rejoined the Army in Europe.

Mrs. Martin said she had thought her brother dead until she received a card from him from a Russian camp last June. He is divorced and his former wife, Mrs. Preston Lane, and their two children now live in Plaistow, N.H.

Cumish was employed in military intelligence in Austria and the Army now wants to know what he

New Group To Elect Officers

PERMANENT OFFICERS will be elected at an open meeting of the Citizens League of the Stroudsburgs for Community Planning at 8 tonight at the YMCA building.

David Miller, temporary president, emphasized that all twin borough residents are invited to attend the session.

The organization was formed last Thursday night by a group interested in future cooperation between the two boroughs. Those present at that session appointed themselves a steering committee to study the question.

Mrs. Delp, Portland, Dies At 70

PORLTAND—Mrs. Grace Delp, 70, wife of H. Floyd Delp Sr., died at her home here Sunday.

She was the daughter of the late John and Martha Johnson Gardner. She was born in New Jersey. She and her husband had celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary on June 22.

She was a member of Portland Presbyterian Church and of the Missionary Society of that church and the Portland Woman's Club.

Survivors are her husband; five daughters, Katherine Jessie, and Alice, at home; Mrs. C. J. Kneeling, Portland, and Mrs. Paul Sigafoos, Mount Bethel; three sons, Douglas K. Delp, William G. Delp and H. Floyd Delp Jr., all of Portland; three grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Anna Bartholomew, Easton.

Friends may call at the Delp home in Portland on Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. Private funeral services and interment will be held at the convenience of the family. Horton funeral home in Johnsonville will be in charge of arrangements.

No one here knows much yet about any of the three—why they were in Soviet hands for so long or how they got there.

Out-of-Town Entertainers

Albert Foulkes, one of the originators of the Welsh Day program, served as master of ceremonies for both programs.

Solos were presented during the afternoon by Evan G. Thomas, Rome, N.Y.; 8-year-old Camille Knapp, Delta, Pa.; John Robert Edwards, Rawhay, N.J.; William H. Burnaford, Shavertown, Pa.; William Marley, Utica, N.Y., and Mrs. Eleanore C. Culbertson, Philadelphia. The St. David's Male Quartet, of Scranton, also sang several numbers. They were David Escandell, Hayden Jones, David Boston and Robert Dicker. They were accompanied by John Alexander at the piano.

Ex-Governor Arthur H. James, of Plymouth, the scheduled main speaker in the afternoon, sent his regrets that he would be unable to fulfill his engagement due to ill health.

The guest speaker at the evening program was Rev. H.G. Roberts, of Llanidloes, Wales. Several vocal solos were presented by Robert Jones, 1955 president of the Welsh Day Association, extended a welcome to the hundreds of out-of-town and foreign visitors to this year's event.

Church Services

Church services in the Welsh language were held Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church, Bangor, with Rev. Roberts delivering the sermon in his native tongue.

Church services in the English language were held Sunday afternoon in the Lutheran Grove. Rev. Davies delivered the sermon. He was assisted by Rev. John C. Brumback, pastor of St. John's Reformed Church, Bangor, and Rev. William E. Dennis, pastor, Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Bangor. Mrs. Edward Williams, Baltimore, Md., was guest soloist.

It was estimated by M.C. Albert Foulkes that representation at this year's celebration was close to 2,000 with 18 states, Wales and Canada represented at the gathering.

To Be Quizzed

The Army here assumed that all have been in various slave labor camps throughout these seven years. After several days of hospital treatment, each will be screened by interrogators.

In the case of Cumish (or Kumis) and Fields (or Feingersch) the Army indicated that both would have to tell some especially convincing stories to avoid court-martial for desertion. Officers withheld an opinion about Hopkins until they can straighten out who he is.

Both Cumish and Fields said they needed medical attention. Hopkins claimed he was in good health. All were spruced up in new Russian-style suits and hats.

To Be Quizzed

The Army here assumed that all have been in various slave labor camps throughout these seven years. After several days of hospital treatment, each will be screened by interrogators.

Australians who came back from such labor camps in the arctic reported some months ago that these three were fellow inmates.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow asked the Soviet Foreign Office to release them and on Aug. 20 the Russians announced that they would be freed.

U.S. interrogators were interested if any of the three knows the whereabouts of others missing from Berlin in recent years. They include Pvt. George Stabler, Jersey Shore, Pa.

Brong's Hit Chases Miller, Moyer Home

SAYLORSBURG — Two runs in the seventh inning enabled the Old Timers to defeat the All-Stars in the Pocono Mountains League All-Star game played here yesterday by a 2-0 count.

The winning runs came off Bonser, Saylorsburg's ace hurler, in the top of the seventh inning with two outs.

Dick Miller, Bushkill catcher, walked for the Old Timers and stole second. Winning hurler Ralph

Tobyhanna Wins With Homers, 7-4

TOBYHANNA — Tobyhanna opened the post-season Pocono Mountains Association play-offs with a 7-4 verdict over Daleville, here on the Coalbaug High field. The game was played on Sunday.

A home run in the ninth inning, with mates aboard and two out, by Stan "Lefty" Kolodzey, gave the home standing Tobyhanna team victory.

Break

After a Daleville runner was hit by a batted ball while rushing to the plate in the top of the ninth and the visiting club argued loud and long that the ball was foul and the out shouldn't be registered, play swung into the history making bottom of the ninth.

Jack Dunning rolled out to open the frame and Bob Sapp, who had homered early in the contest, followed with a single. Jim Kinsley walked, but Mike Shinko flied out to right.

Kolodzey took a strike and then a ball, before lining the third pitch from Bob Haines deep into the woods in right center field for a home run.

Box score follows:

Varsity 'S' Association To Collect Funds For Stroudsburg Relief In Two Sections

TWO HOUSE-to-house campaigns will be held today and all collections in both ventures will be poured into the Stroudsburg Relief Fund, it was announced last night by Bernard "Doc" Helman, chairman of this phase of the drive.

One of the campaigns will take place in Stroudsburg and will be known as a "Porch Light" collection. All residents of the Stroudsburg group and Paul "Muff" Warnick will lead the group covering Ann, Main and Monroe Sts., from Fifth to Ninth.

Another collection will take place in the West End section of Monroe County. This drive is being conducted by the West End Youth Center.

Both drives will run from 7 to 10 a.m., Helman revealed.

Helman announced that Bill Crooks will head collections on Fifth St. to the borough line and through Arlington Heights. Oliver Weber will lead the South Stroudsburg group and Paul "Muff" Warnick will lead the group covering Ann, Main and Monroe Sts., from Fifth to Ninth.

George Metropoulos will cover the hill section of Stroudsburg, to the borough limits, and Ed Somers will be in charge of the Sarah, Scott and Thomas Sts. territory. Helman will lead collections in the W. Main St. and Dreher Ave. sections.

Each of the district leaders has selected a number of assistants for the collection drive.

The Stroudsburg Relief Fund was organized by the Varsity "S" Association, which in turn presents all money to Rev. Roger C. Stimson, pastor of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Waite Memorial Golf Tourney Opens Today

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE — Fred Waring will present his 10th annual Waite Memorial golf tournament at his famed Shawnee Inn and Country Club resort today through Saturday.

Waring and his hard working staff repaired the damage to the famed course and hotel inflicted by the last month's flood.

Several holes have been redesigned, but the famed September golf show is again ready to take its place among the number one attractions in the Pocono Mountains.

The Waite Memorial will feature outstanding amateurs under 50 years of age, while the Old Timers Tournament, running in conjunction with the Waite, is for those outstanding golfers over 50.

Large Field

Champions and former champions will be a dime-a-dozen in the field of over 160 expected starters.

A heavy list of entries from New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania will make its presence felt, but there are also entries from California and Texas and virtually every other state in the union.

Tuesday's opening round will feature mixed play, pitting the Old Masters against the young Waite golfers.

Despite herculean work by Waring and his men, the first and 18th holes will not be playable during the tournament.

Look, Mrs. Vulcan, don't you know it's impossible for them to identify bones? Sure, I guarantee my work—and that still goes.

Codles, if one finger of suspicion points at me—I'll—ill—

You'll what?

Nothing, I'll keep on paving—but—I wanted you to know how I feel—

Service Club Outing Set For Tomorrow

THE STROUDSBURG Kiwanis Club is sponsoring an outing for members and ladies at Camp Tamiment tomorrow afternoon and evening. Marty Baldwin, co-chairman has announced.

Ben Josephson, manager at Tamiment, urged the outing be held after it became questionable following the recent flood. He expressed the opinion, Baldwin said, it would furnish an opportunity to get away from the serious situation that is being faced here.

Josephson was said to have informed Baldwin there would be no motoring difficulties in reaching the camp, all the facilities of which will be available to the visitors.

Other Service Clubs

Members and ladies of all other service clubs of the local community have been invited to participate in the outing. The response is said to have been encouraging.

The dinner will be served at 7 p.m. There will be special music and a brief address by a speaker of prominence. Those attending can go and leave as they desire, but are urged to be on hand in time for the dinner.

The office of Dr. T. I. Metzgar will be closed from Sept. 6 to 9—Ad.

Reopening Of Schools Puts Responsibility On Motorists

THE POCONO Mountains Motor Club's annual "School's Open—Drive Carefully" campaign to alert motorists that they must once again be on the lookout for children crossing streets on the way to and from school begins today.

R. L. Dengler, president, pointed out that while most schools in Monroe County do not actually open until Wednesday the motor club will start placing large posters near all schools today so that motorists will have a short "conditioning period".

The eye-catching red and black poster will be the major "tool" that the motor club will use in bringing the opening of school to the attention of motorists. The office of the county superintendent of schools is arranging for the distribution of the posters.

Two Points To Remember

"The two principal things that motorists should do in connection with the campaign," Mr. Dengler said, "is to scrupulously obey special speed limits around schools and be extra alert for young children who are not yet safety-wise darting into the street at unexpected places."

"During the school year," the motor club official added, "the club will work with school officials to train children in safe walking habits, but past experience has shown that it takes time to really fix safety in the minds of new students. Meanwhile, it's the motorist's responsibility to watch out for children — even if the children are at fault."

Mr. Dengler also asked motorists to give every cooperation to School Safety Patrol boys and girls. "These volunteer safety guardians are on duty to protect their schoolmates and to see that they cross streets only when it is safe, and their job can be much easier and effective if motorists learn to recognize them and cooperate with them."

First Weeks Critical

"Throughout the country, the safety record for school children has been very good during the past years, but these first few weeks after school opens are critical ones. Children will learn more about traffic safety in school lessons, but meanwhile motorists will be doing a great service to the community if they will drive carefully," he concluded.

Walter Urges Million Dollars For Reservoir

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (UPI)—One million dollars in federal aid to start construction of the Bear Creek flood control reservoir near White Haven, Pa., today was urged by Rep. Walter (D-Pa.).

After a conference with Budget Bureau officials, Walter told a reporter that although no commitment was made, he is "very optimistic" that the money will be included in President Eisenhower's budget for the year starting next July 1.

The reservoir, estimated to cost around 19 million dollars, would control water runoff of 288 square miles, located in one of the areas that was hard hit by floods which resulted from the rains of Hurricane Diane.

A record 55,844,449 tons of iron ore was shipped down the Great Lakes in 1953.

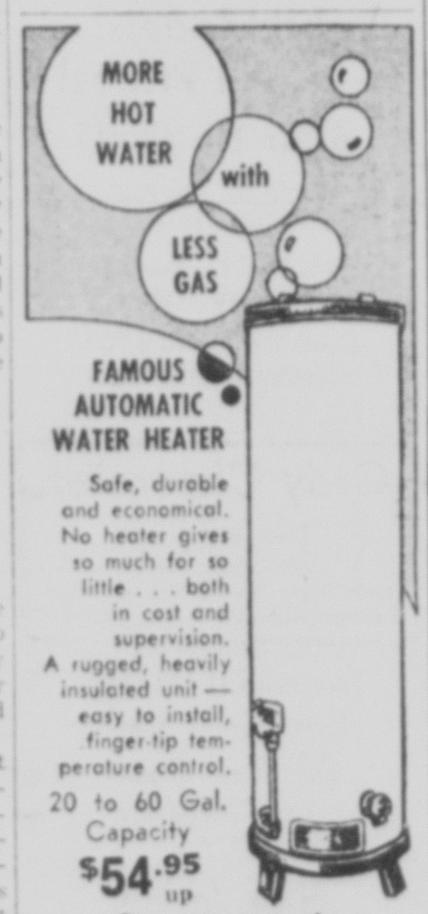

Inoculation Schedule Set

BUSHKILL — The third inoculation for typhoid in the Bushkill area will be administered this week. On Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m. the shots will be given at the firehouse in Bushkill.

On Thursday from 9 to 11 a.m. they will be given at Adele McCullough's office in Dingmans Ferry.

Wigs began to be very popular in Europe when Louis XIII began to grow bald and turned to elaborate wigs which were imitated by his followers.

Districts Granted Extension

SEVEN MONROE County school districts now have a one-month extension from the State Department of Public Instruction in which to put a jointure into effect.

The extension was granted because of flood conditions. At a meeting last Thursday night representatives of the seven districts now involved in jointure discussions reviewed typical articles of agreement from all over the State.

Much of the discussion was centered around the number of representatives each board should have on a joint school committee. Still involved in the discussions are boards from Barrett, Paradise, Tobyhanna, Coobah, Tunkhannock and Jackson townships and Mount Pocono borough.

About 27,000 Americans become blind annually.

Above-Normal Temperatures Are Forecast

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (UPI)—The Weather Bureau said today its 30-day outlook for September calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals in the South and also in the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes region.

Elsewhere above normal temperatures are predicted, with greatest departures in the Northern Rocky Mountain states, the bureau said.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal in states along the Gulf and Atlantic Coasts, but subnormal amounts are indicated for most of the remainder of the nation.
